He admitted that in case of another war, by the experience of the past, more effective means could be provided.

Major dallagher said there was claimed to be a shortage of Bichters, but he was not able to say this was true. Colonel Denby pressed for information as to the shortage of coffee and sugar. Major Gallagher stated there were probably two days when the men were without these articles. A storm was the cause of this deficiency, but if there had been a sufficiency of lighters this deficiency would not have occurred. The major said there was not, to his knowledge, a shortage in any other article of food during the campaign. Mr. Denby told him there was complaint of a deficiency covering a month's time, but Mr. Gallagher said he knew asthing of it.

"Supposing," asked General McCook, "this shortage of rations had insted for geven days instead of one, what would have been the result?"

"In the first place," said this commissioner, "we asked who had been influential in selecting the camp situe. The only answer vouchsafed is that General Lee selected the camp at Jacksonville. I do not think any other camp is mentioned. But this omission will, no doubt, be remedied in the supplemental report for which we will call on the secretary."

Secretary Afger's report includes about 2,000 words, and, in addition to the Jacksonville camp matter, covers only these joints: The selection of Tampa as a point of Embarkation; Hear Admirial Sampson's dispatch the cause of mastening troops to Santago; Commodore Ramey's dispatch the cause of the subsequent delay of the troops. the commission will return to Wash-ington before going to Santiage, which, it is thought, will be among the last things done by the commission.

The evidence taken by the board shows that Dr. Tabor did prescribe for Parrett, and that he attended him twice on the day of his death. Not 15 minutes before the man died Dr. Tabor minutes before the man died Dr. Tabor was talking to him in front of his tent. The man was then suffering from a case of acute pheumonia, superinduced by a bath which he had taken in the surf only a short time before. Parrett had been ordered by one of the surgeous of his company to take a bath, and to go to the cook's tent to get warm water in which to bathe. For some reason Parrett did not get the warm water, but went to the beach and plunged into the surf. The effect produced by the cold water on his system, which was much reduced by fever and other causes, was so great that pneumonia instantly developed, and he died in a short time.

The evidence further shows that Dr. Tabor was very cross to Parrett and that he spoke to him sharply. This is accounted for in the testimony by the fact that Dr. Tabor was himself nearly ill from the effects of the hard work he had been doing, and was nervous and unstrung. The report of the board of inquiry was referred to Judge Advocate Lieber, and by him returned to the secretary of war with the could a that the commissary, during their stay at Sibaney, had been able to meet all requirements made upon them for provisions by the troops, and none of them were ever refused. EXPRESSIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

To the many floral offerings sent to the president and members of the family have been added a flood of telegrams and letters from sympathizing friends in all parts of the world. Among the messages received was a cablegram of condolence to the president and the family from the American reace commissioners in Paris. Messages were also received from nearly all of the American diplomats and representatives abroad. The diplomatic corps at Washington has been particularly generous in exarcssions and tokens of sympathy to the president and to the afflicted family. In his brief walks about the city for exercise as well as about the house, people of all classes, workingmen and business and professional men have everywhere given to the president expressions of deepest sympathy and condolence. Some among the most frequent and most sympathetic callers at the house have been returned volunteer soldiers of the army sent to Cuba, several hundred of whom are here on furlough. In his opening speech of the cam-

In his opening speech of the cam-paign at Carson, Nev., a few nights ago, Congressman Newlands referred to the subject of international bimetal-lism, saying:

"The Keaublican party was success-ful in the election two years ago, its financial plank pledged that party to international bimetallism and to the

Among the resolutions presented and referred was one expressing thanks for the sympathy of Great Britain towards this government during the recent war with Spain, and hoping the time would come when the two great flations would stand "shoulder to shoulder" and "flag to flag" in the progress of the world. The main discussion of the day was on an amendment to the constitution. This related mainly to the internal or ganization of the church, and to the amendment of article 4 for the establishment of standing committees in each diocese. "Article 4, in regard to the standing committees" of dioceses, was agreed to after the introduction of an unimportant amendment. Article 5, governing the formation of new dioceses, was amended so as to permit the diocese of New York and Brooklyn to be divided. Article 6 was adopted on a wore by dioceses. Article 7 led to a sharp discussion over the so-called provincial system. The committee reported the minority report, holding with hospitality, there was a fire in the Though the King withheld cermission, though the British minister protested, though family and home and kindred pied with the youthful nobleman to remain, he left all to fight the battle of freedom he another land."
